Do you also need new machine guarding?

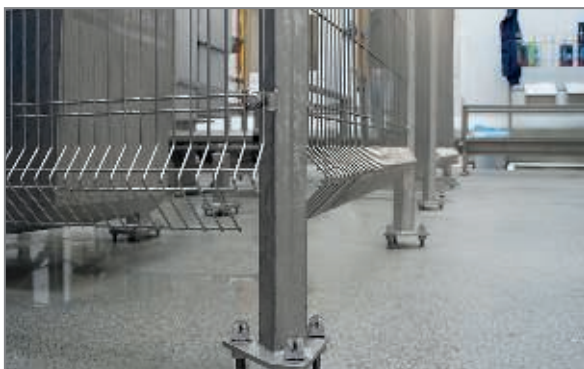

Machine guarding solutions are often forgotten or poorly prioritized. It is a known fact that guarding is crucial for safety regulations and for reducing down time.

Proven Hygienic Solutions since 1995

NTF-Aalborg, full-line supplier of machine protection and guarding in stainless steel, and the leading specialist within hygienic machine guarding in stainless steel for the food industry.

In the food processing industry, guarding solutions in corroded conditions like this, are unfortunately still seen.

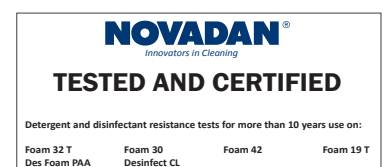

Our stainless steel solutions are sturdy, hygienic and easy to install onsite.

Hygienic guarding in stainless steel

Comp-Line is a complete modular stainless steel system for machine protection and guarding. The modular guarding is well-suited for the food industry, utilises profiles with welded mesh panels of stainless steel with no horizontal surfaces. This design ensures particularly effective and hygienic cleaning.
